

'SAVED', BY AN ALARMED CLOCK

Dear reader, from time immemorial, one of the closest, oldest & helpful inanimate companions of man has been a chronometer - often referred to as a watch or clock. Apart from its basic function as time indicator it, additionally, functions as an alarm clock. It is most useful, when one needs some prompting, especially, to wake up from a deep asleep. Its dependability is, usually, unquestionable. However, a sad, but notable story was reported in the print media, in the late 1980's, of a lady who had a CRUCIAL BUSINESS DEAL, in a foreign country, to transact. As one of her key strategies, to ensure that her presence at the meeting was '100% guaranteed', she had to depend on THIS reliable old - time friend of man - the alarm clock. Her instruction, to her good friend was; 'wake me up at 03.00 GMT'. However, for some unexplainable reasons, beyond her comprehension, her friend chose to wake her up at exactly 05.00 GMT - the time her FLIGHT was scheduled to be airborne.

Her immediate 'disciplinary measure', meted out, was to carry the clock and smash it on the floor, destroying it, totally. Hastily, she rushed out at a terrific speed - the type of speed reserved for jet fighters. Just as her car meandered its way to the airport, she had a SIGHT of her plane, in a 20 deg. vertical rise. Dejected, disorganized & deflated, she stood! "In fact, this VITAL BUSINESS DEAL [my LIFE] is gone", she said within herself. LIFE seemed worthless, easily irritated with all who crossed her path. But, she was soon to hear, "Announcement please! We are very sorry to inform you that flight number 'XXX', which took off 20 minutes ago, could not make it to its destination. Reports indicate that none survived. Retrieval of charred bodies, is still ongoing; though Herculean"

For the first time ever in her life, she soberly gazed at the Heavens, thanked the 'one she had ignored for long'. Then, she whispered, "Ah, I've smashed my 'savior'; as she drew the crucifix in the air. YES, 'SAVIORS'- Those who work so hard, to rescue others from HELL, are often smashed this way.

Dear reader, In the light of THIS TRUE STORY [their soul rest in peace], if you were ask to make a CHOICE between, all the essentials of this life; business deal, fame, buildings, wealth, marriage, children, prosperity, fun, power, ALL put together, AND LIFE, which ONE will you choose.?

Jesus said in Matt 16:26 "For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?" OR, can anything be compared to LIFE? Friend,
